Principal's Desk

"Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, and endures all things".

1 Corinthians 13: 7

Throughout generations, compassion and love have played important roles in the dynamics of human interaction. Although these two concepts are constants in the general sense, they become more dynamic when viewed from different religious and cultural perspectives.

While Love ties the thread of union among each one of us, compassion is something that brings people closer to one another.

A compassionate person is an individual who is always ready to help others without anything in return. It is only because of compassion and love that make this Earth a better place to live in! Again, we see that love and compassion are our necessities. We can never classify them as our luxuries. It is only because of love and compassion that have helped us remain alive despite all life's hurdles. You cannot call love to be as it is if there was no compassion. Therefore, without these two emotions, humans would have remained isolated from one another. It is none other than love and compassion that have united everyone to reside together. It is only because we know that we have each other's arms by our side that gives us new hope to start each day even though we had lost a million times.

Father's Day

If dad has been an ever-present force of love, support and guidance in your life, it can be hard to know just the right words to express your gratitude and admiration when the time comes to honor him on Father's Day we teach our young generation to honour their father's and respect him for his sacrifices and affection.

International Day of Yoga

International Yoga Day is celebrated on June 21 every year to spread awareness about the invaluable benefits of Yoga. Practicing yoga might seem like just stretching, but it can do much more for your body than the way you feel, look and move. It even helps you with increasing flexibility, muscle strength and body tone. It improves respiration, energy and vitality.

International Day against Drug Abuse

The theme of International Day against Drug Abuse is 'Share Facts on Drugs, Save Lives'. According to the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), the motive is to combat misinformation by sharing real facts on drugs — from health risks and solutions for the world drug problem to evidence-based prevention, treatment, and care. Our children took part in poster making competition arranged by our art and design faculty Mr. Sibi.

Students' Corner

"We rise by lifting others."

Humanity and Kindness, words that are ironically practically synonymous, the word 'humanity' is used to describe human nature as one to be kind, empathetic and amiable. When that is in complete contrast to usual human nature, which is mostly self-centered, ignorant and greedy. But the intriguing bit about our species is the fact that we're not just one thing, we're also resourceful, inventive, emotionally bound, and soft hearted, but most important of all these qualities that we possess, is our incredibly complex emotional intelligence.

This vulnerability gives us the ability to feel for another being in a way no other creature has known to be capable of feeling, which opens the doors to kindness.

Our intellectual superiority can, as we've seen, either be a blessing or a curse depending on how we channel, because we can either let our extremely endless thirst to want more take over and watch the world fall at our feet at its cost, destroying anything that we don't have a requirement for, or, we could let our sensitive 'humane' nature lead our way into even the smallest acts of kindness, which can then be spread through example.

With our position as 'superior', one would expect us to be the most rational and least animalistic in our actions, but sadly enough, though not directly, we show traits more viscous than a top predator oftentimes, which is sad, sad that we don't uphold the weight of the word 'humanity', which is used in such a positive sense most of the time.

So let's all do our part in matching our innate instincts to that of kindness, and try to be our most benevolent sides.
